in this town; and we think nobody else has quite the same idea we have about the proper functions of a clothing store.

Our idea is to see that our customers get exactly what they ought to have; if you come here we'll try to show you what will be really best for you; the color, the style, the weave, the model that is best suited to your special case. We'll try not to think we know more about what you want than you do. But we do know something about styles, and best fabrics; and we can tell if a suit or overcoat looks right on you; fits properly; is becoming to you.

It's just as much to our interest as to yours to get you into the right thing. We can afford to be disinterested about these things; but we can't afford to let you go anywhere else for clothes when we know we've got the best clothes made.

Clark of the Northeastern normal faculty spoke of the advantages of Tahlequah and Cherokee county and responses were delivered by President Campbell Russell of the association and R. E. Sorrells of the executive committee and W. W. Graves of the A. H. T. A. of St. Paul, Kansas. The convention then went into regular session for the transactions of business and are holding a session tonight.

Tulsa has appeared as a candidate for the honor of entertaining the next convention and so far has no opposition.

President Russell last night spoke to a small audience on the question of the corporation tax amendment.

ED BRENTS BUSY IN MINNESOTA

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 23.—It is given out on reliable authority that there is to be a general shake-up in the staff of government agents working under the direction of W. E. Johnson, who has charge of enforcing the liquor closing provisions of the Indian treaty in Minnesota, and that other developments of a sensational nature may be expected even to the ultimate closing of all the saloons in the affected territory.

N. J. Sero, who has been one of the leading agents in the work on Northern Minnesota, and who has attained notoriety because of charges of assault preferred against him and Agent James Davis by A. A. Oliver, editor of the Cass county Pioneer at Walker, has been transferred by Mr. Johnson to Michigan, and the work in Northern Minnesota is now to be largely directed by Brents.

Agent Brents recently visited Cass Lake to investigate conditions, the result of which was to arrest the three saloonkeepers charged with having offered bribes. He has long been in the government service, and has already collected evidence which will make his return from the west a feature in the present liquor closing crisis.

A Springfield woman grew suspicious of her husband and believed him to be in the habit of kissing a pretty servant girl in her employ, so she decided to watch him and catch him in the act. She heard him enter the kitchen quietly one evening when the pretty servant girl was out. She immediately placed a shawl over her head and, with matches in hand, entered the dark kitchen by the back door and was almost immediately seized and kissed in the most ardent manner. Bent on administering a terrible rebuke, she tore loose from his embrace and struck a match. There stood the servant girl's beau. —Boston Herald.

STATE CAPITAL STORY A FAKE

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 26.—The State Capital, a local republican newspaper, published a story that news of the death of Bill Cross, deceased secretary of state, was held up eight hours to further the ends of Leo Meyer, then the assistant secretary of state and a candidate for the office. Though put under an Oklahoma City date line and accredited to an imaginary correspondent, it is known positively that the story was written in the editorial rooms of the paper here by one of its subordinates. It is arousing much indignation both among democrats and republicans, both because of its palpable falsity and its injustice to Mr. Meyer.

The story would have it that Bill Cross died at noon, August 2, the day of the primaries, instead of at 6 o'clock the morning of the day following. By thus advancing the time of his death, to follow the anonymous falsehood, the state executive committee was able to name Cross' successor, when otherwise under the law Senator Blair, as second man would have received the nomination. Since the state committee gave the nomination for state auditor to Meyer, after the death of Secretary Cross the successful candidate for the place the State Capital story would have it that Meyer furthered a plan to keep Cross' death secret for a day so that he (Meyer) could get the place on the ticket left vacant by the secretary's death.

The physician's certificate of death of course proves this story a falsehood. As to its absurdity, it is sufficient to say that Meyer was thought to be the successful candidate for secretary of state at the time of Cross' death, the primary returns then in showing Meyer to lead, and considering himself the successful candidate for that office, could certainly have had no desire for the candidacy for auditor. In fact Meyer was so certain that he had defeated Harrison for secretary of state that he declined the appointment to fill out the unexpired term left vacant by the death of Secretary Cross, since that would have barred him from the four-year term following which he was at that instant sure of winning.

When the conditions are such as these, to accuse him of conspiring for the vacancy of auditor on the ticket is worse than ridiculous.

GRANDFATHER CLAUSE IS UPHELD

SUPREME COURT DECLARES IT IS CONSTITUTIONAL.

SECTION IS NOT REPUGNANT

Provision Does Not Affect Any One Race, Nor Does It Conflict with Federal Statutes.

Guthrie, Ok., Oct. 26.—The so-called grandfather clause amendment to the suffrage article of the state constitution, adopted on Aug. 2, is legal, according to an opinion of the state supreme court, delivered by Justice Williams today. The opinion affirmed the decision of the Oklahoma County District court, Judge Carney presiding, in the case of Atwater against Hassett, brought to test the constitutionality of the amendment.

The supreme court holds that the amendment is neither repugnant to the constitution nor invalid on account of Sec. 3 of the Oklahoma enabling act. That section provided that the constitution of Oklahoma should be republican in form, and make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color, and that it should not be repugnant to the federal constitution or the declaration of independence.

The court quotes at length an opinion from the state of Alabama, where a similar question was passed upon as to the Oklahoma law. Justice Williams said:

"It is a matter of common knowledge that the population of this state is cosmopolitan, embracing people of every creed and race, from practically every state in the union. All those persons who on Jan. 1, 1866, or any time prior thereto were entitled to vote under any form of government or who at that time resided in some foreign nation, and afterward came to the United States and by naturalization became citizens of the United States and their lineal descendants, regardless of race or previous condition of servitude, are permitted to vote at the election in this state, without complying with the educational requirements of said provision, 'grandfather clause;' that is a qualification based on reason; that if any person is entitled to vote under a form of government on said date is still presumed to be qualified to exercise such right and the presumption follows as to his offspring, that the virtues and intelligence of the ancestor will be imputed to his descendants, just as the iniquities of the fathers may be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation. But as to those who were not entitled to vote under any form of government, on said date, and their descendants there is no presumption in favor of their qualification, and the burden is upon them to show themselves qualified. This does not apply to any one race, but every race that falls within this disqualification. The alien who resided in some foreign country on Jan. 1, 1866, who was not entitled to vote under that form of government and who came to the United States and became naturalized, was required to undergo an examination to show himself qualified for citizenship, and when the courts of this republic or of the different states thereof exercising the powers of naturalization have examined and passed upon his qualification the presumption is in favor of his qualification is recognized. The alien who resided in the United States on Jan. 1, 1866, having not taken advantage of the opportunity to become a citizen of this republic and who had not previously been a qualified voter under some form of government, falls within the class upon whom the educational restrictions is imposed. No alien or foreigner can become a qualified elector in this state until he has by naturalization become a citizen of the United States. The negro, previously a slave, who became a free man or had always been such and resided in Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Rhode Island or New York, on Jan. 1, 1866, or his descendants who reside in this state may vote under this provision regardless of the educational requirements as to the children of all electors. However, it is now compulsory upon them to attend the public schools of this state and thereby receive an education. Referring to the Oklahoma enabling act, and particularly to Sec. 3, which gauged the character of a constitution, the state was required to formulate and which the plaintiff in the lower court, invoked to negative the so-called grandfather clause, the court today held that the state's rights were established by Sec. 1 of the bill of rights which reserved to the state power to determine the qualifications of its electors. It is pointed out that this section was in all the constitution when presented to the president for his approval, that he issued his proclamation thereupon, and that the constitution also specifically provided that the state could amend the document whenever the public good required, being limited by the proviso only to the extent that such alteration or revision shall not conflict with the constitution of the United States. The opinion continues:

"It has time and again been held that if the constitution of a state contains any modifications of the provisions of the enabling act whereby the state been formally admitted by the president and congress into the union, that the modification contained in the construction controls. It is therefore not essential in this case to determine whether a provision of the enabling act accepted by an irrevocable ordinance made on the part of the state, preliminary to admission, could have a continuing and binding effect upon the state after its admission into the union."

The court said that the grandfather amendment has not been placed in operation, and asks how could it be shown that its administration was evil until then, and adds:

Every election officer is sworn not only to observe the law, but obey it which includes this amendment. The presumption is that they will fairly carry the law into effect. Should the election officers knowingly and willfully exclude from voting negroes who are qualified to vote under the clause, sufficiently in number had all been counted for the next highest candidate, to have changed the result of the election, such election would have been void."

Citing Martin against McGuff (Muskegon election case) concurring in the opinion with Justice Williams were Chief Justice Dunn, Justices Hay and Turner. Justice Kane concurred in the conclusions reached, but dissented from that part of the reasoning as to the enabling act.

The case affecting the grandfather clause in the federal court will be argued beginning Monday.

MA'S DINNER AND TARIFF.

When ma has the Sunday dinner ready and rings the good old dinner bell, tariff-taxed 45 per cent, the hungry "tribe" hustles for the dining room.

You and Willie are seated on chairs, taxed 35 per cent, facing a table, also taxed 35 per cent, before the last doing has faded away.

Then, grasping a knife and a fork, both tariff-taxed 40 per cent, you carefully gather the napkin, taxed only 1 3-4 cents and an additional 30 per cent if it is just ordinary linen, and reminding Willie not to place his dripping spoon, taxed not less than 40 per cent, on the clean table cloth, taxed not to exceed 9 cents a square yard with an additional 30 per cent, you start in.

Ma brings in the roast beef, taxed 1 1-2 cents a pound, or maybe it's chicken, taxed 5 cents a pound, in a nice large platter, taxed 55 per cent, which by the way is the Payne-Aldrich tax on all the dishes on the table.

Ma thinks that Willie and Lucy should not drink coffee, so into their 55 per cent tariff-taxed cups she pours some chocolate, tariff-taxed 2 1-2 cents a pound, and some cream which is also taxed 5 cents a gallon in the tariff bill because two or three monster dairy concerns in the United States needed protection against the pauper cows of Canada.

Maybe ma and you will take buttermilk, and there's a tariff on that, too—2 cents a gallon.

Then the real business of the hour begins in earnest.

Scattered in tempting display over the laden table, your roving eye finds bread, taxed 25 per cent, through the flour in it; butter, taxed 6 cents a pound; beefs, 25 per cent; beans, 2 1-2 cents a pound; pickles and sauce, 40 per cent; cabbage, 2 cents a head; honey, 20 per cent; potatoes, 25 cents a bushel; onions, 40 per cent, and cranberries, 25 per cent.

Between bites Willie tries to decide whether to take a double helping of the rice pudding, tariff-taxed 2 cents a pound for the rice; sugar taxed 1 9-10 cents a pound, and raisins 2 1-2 cents a pound, or one helping of the pudding and piece of peach cobbler—peaches tariff-taxed 25 per cent.

When hunger is finally appeased time can be taken, while chewing the toothpick, taxed 2 cents per 1-000 and an added 15 per cent on their wholesale value, to gaze at the flowers, taxed 25 per cent, which bought at the corner florist's to make the Sunday dinner a little different from the weekday affairs.

While Willie and Lucy are calmly munching their candy, taxed all the way up to 50 per cent pa makes for his briar pipe, taxed 35 per cent, and fills it with cap tobacco, taxed 55 cents a pound, and ma cleans up the table.

Oh, yes; to go back to the beginning of this Sunday dinner, the blessing that pa asked on the tariff-taxed food was not taxed in the Payne-Aldrich bill—Des Moines (Ia.)

The difference between Cruce and McNeal as friends to the farmers is Neal as friends to the farmers is well shown by their attitudes in the panic of 1907. J. A. West was one of several Farmers Union officers who attended a conference with the bankers and business men to devise ways and means of easing the situation.
McNeal insisted that the farmers should dump their cotton at once, taking scrip in payment for it. At Ardmore Lee Cruce told the farmers to do nothing of the kind. He stated that his bank would carry them as long as it possibly could and when it could do no more would help them get their cotton to Galveston and get real money for it. McNeal was thinking only of his own hide, while Cruce was thinking of his people.

Joe McNeal has a right to feel sore at the Democratic administration.
When the republicans were in power he made a fortune discounting state warrants, but since the democrats took hold these warrants have always sold for par, and McNeal was cut off from his graft. We don't wonder that he thinks things are going to the demmition bow wows.

The supreme court of Tennessee has rendered a decision that is carrying consternation into the ranks of the bootleggers. It upholds the constitutionality of the state law that makes the possession of a federal liquor license prima facie evidence of the violation of the state prohibitory law. It is not even necessary to show that a single sale has been made in order to secure a conviction.

At the Turkish Bath

"I take the baths simply to keep myself in good condition," explained the very large woman to her pretty little neighbor on the next couch. "It isn't as if I were too stout. I have a large frame, of course, but not an ounce too much flesh, my husband says. He always did admire fine-looking women. I wouldn't lose a pound for the world!"

"Well, I would," interrupted the red-haired woman. "Of all atrocious things in this world, it is fat!" She eyed the large woman and continued:
"When I found that I was five pounds above normal I came down at once to take a course of baths. I've steamed and roasted and been pounded until I've lost three pounds. Hips are simply disgusting to me. Of course, this season's styles say smaller waists and slightly larger hip effect. But I'll take mine in effect, thank you!"

"Well, I confess I'm fat—just plain fat," commented a second stout woman. "I've dieted and walked and taken active and passive exercise until I'm too tired to move. I've gone without dessert. I've had massage until my hips were black and blue.
Now I'm rolling."

"Rolling?" asked the pretty little woman. "What's that?"
"Haven't you tried rolling yet?" churused the others. "Why, you can reduce a pound in four days if you roll for 15 minutes night and morning, and it's the surest—"

"But I'm not trying to reduce."
"Not trying to reduce! Then why are you here?" demanded the large woman, sternly.

"I've always been thin," meekly responded the little woman, "but of late I've had rheumatism, so my physician advised Turkish baths for me."

"Oh!" chorused the envious ones.
"It must be hard not to be able to wear evening dress," said the first large woman, at last. "Of course, if one doesn't go about socially it doesn't much matter, I suppose."

The red-haired woman winked at the dazed little lady.

"My husband would object seriously if I should propose wearing anything else than decollete every evening for dinner," the large woman continued.
"We entertain extensively."

"I'll wager she does her own housework," whispered the red-haired woman to her thin neighbor. "Look at her finger nails!"

"Well," sighed the second fat woman, "I can't even look well in a low-necked gown; my flesh seems to hang in waves, so that I cover it up all that I can. I'm rolling and taking three baths a week so that I can take gymnastic dancing. My daughter goes to a class and she has grown so graceful—of course, she always was graceful—I didn't mean that—and, besides, she lost a pound the first week. So I entered at once and paid for the whole course in advance. But the very first exercises were so strenuous for me that I had to go home in a taxicab and stay in bed for two whole days. So I'm bound to reduce enough to go back into the class, for the thought of that $30 ticket that I bought and can't use is giving me insomnia!"

The red-haired woman gave her neighbor a wicked look. "Imagine our friend skipping lightly across the polished floor to dreamy music!" she said.

The first fat woman was slowly arising from her couch. The red-haired woman sprang up and reached the door first.

"Good-by," she sang back, mockingly.

"The cat!" snorted the first fat woman. "She knew that I was trying to get Mary first and now it will be hours before she is through with her rubbing. Mary is the best masseuse in the place and that person always gives her a double tip. I'm positive, to get an extra long treatment. And I'm in a great hurry. A very exclusive luncheon at one o'clock and I will have to take some one else!"

The little woman crept into her bed for a short rest and listened to the telephone orders for luncheon for the rest. If the first fat woman was in such a hurry for a luncheon engagement, why was she ordering a steak smothered in onions, with a double order of fried potatoes? If the second fat woman wanted to reduce, why did she order a meal of sweets and chocolate? If the red-haired woman didn't care particularly to lose more than two pounds, why was she so careful to select from a reducing diet? The little woman smiled to herself—there were some compensations in being slender.

She stopped at the scales in going out to find the second fat woman carefully consulting it.

"I've gained four ounces," the latter groaned, "and I eat nothing at all! I am afraid I'll not be able to take any rhythmic dancing, gymnastic or otherwise, at this rate this winter!
Would you like to buy my ticket at half price?"

story of Mr. and Mrs. Spitzky of the East side, who rushed to school and "It was good we got there in time," said the father; but the already Amer-icanized son remarked: "What did youse butt in for?"

The baking can be made with more certainty of good results;

Diphtheria Epidemic at Muskogee. Gregory Acquitted in Federal Court.

Muskogee Phoenix says:

All the public schools will probably be closed today or in the immediate future and several prominent physicians of the city will undoubtedly be placed under arrest today as a result of the epidemic of diphtheria now raging in Muskogee and the arrival here yesterday of state Commissioner of Health J. C. Mahr.

Washington school, closed several days ago, has not been reopened.
Conditions are alarming, according to the health commissioner. The suppressing of the extent of the epidemic is useless.

Twenty-five Known Cases.

City Superintendent of Health Sesler Hoss is authority for the statement that twenty-five cases of diphtheria are now under quarantine and a few days ago the number was thirty-five. But twenty per cent of the physicians of the city have been reporting their cases. Drs. Mahr and Hoss therefore believe that there are over a hundred cases within the city. It is the physicians who have not been making the reports required by law that will suffer.

Dr. Mahr explained last night that any physician has the right to establish a temporary quarantine when he believes a case may develop into diphtheria and that the punishment for violating such restrictions is equally as severe as those imposed on persons breaking a quarantine established by the officers.

PONTOTOC BOY WINS PRIZE FOR CORN

At the boys' corn growing contest held here in the early fall Owen Stout of Ahloso won a $4.00 prize on his exhibit of ten ears. The Ahloso school district added $5.00 to this. He sent his corn to the state fair and a few days ago received a check for $17.50. That makes a total of $26.50 for ten ears of corn. Some of the other boys would have doubtless won prizes at the fair had they sent their exhibit in. Prof. Pierce hopes that 500 boys of Pontotoc county will try for the contest of next year.

DR. EVANS VISITS ADA NORMAL

Dr. A. Grant Evans, president of the state university, arrived here this morning and at 3 o'clock this afternoon delivered an interesting talk to the normal students on the subject of education in general and the state university in particular, paying particular attention to the advantages offered by our home university for ambitious students. Dr. Evans is one of the most prominent educators in the southwest and one who carries conviction with what he says.

He left this afternoon for Missouri to witness the big athletic event of the year, the football game between Oklahoma and Missouri.

The Reason Why.

At a recent meeting of the temperance forces in Willard Hall Chicago, the following fine piece of irony was read. Background and contrast aid in forming judgment:

"Twelve reasons why we ought to support the saloon offered as a return compliment to the reasons recently given by the liquor advocates why the abolition of the saloon would be an evil:

1. Because of its moral uplift in the community.
2. Because of its purifying effect on politics.
3. Because it is such a law-abiding institution.
4. Because its patrons get so much value for their money.
5. Because drinking helps one to get a job and to keep it.
6. Because it makes business for the courts and county agent.
7. Because drunkards—the saloon's finished product—make such good husbands and loving fathers.
8. Because saloons always make a city safer and better places for boys and girls to grow up in.
9. Because all right-minded fathers and mothers pray that their boys may become saloonkeepers.
10. Because it raises public revenue by a tax upon what the poor people drink, so that the rich may dodge taxation on what they possess.
11. Because to close the saloons would cause such an increased sale of home comforts that your children would be run down in the street by delivery wagons.
12. Because without saloons vice, crime, pauperism, graft and corruption would be eliminated and unspeakable injury would result to the public in consequence.—EX.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVES FAIL

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief. Ramsey Drug Co., West Main St. 2

TULSA GIRL WOULD PEN HER FATHER

Muskogee, Okla., Oct. 26.—After thirty-one years, William Sperry, alias Wm. H. Pound, seventy years old, was trailed down and arrested on complaint of his own daughter charging him with adultery. And this same daughter is now studying law in Washington, will graduate soon and hopes to prosecute her own father as her first case. The father and daughter met face to face here today for the first time in thirty-one years.

Thirty-one years ago, in what was then Wyandotte, now a part of Kansas City, according to the daughter's story, Sperry deserted her mother and four small children and ran away with another woman, a former servant in the family. Sperry was not seen nor heard from by his wife or children for thirty years. The woman with whom he went away died a year later. Then he married again. Fifteen years ago Sperry came to Tulsa, Okla. He changed his name to William Pound. He was a carpenter. He has two children by his last marriage.

In 1900 Margaret Hopkins Sperry, an employe in the department of commerce and labor at Washington, got a special bill through congress allowing her mother a pension. Sperry was an old soldier, it was this pension that makes the daughter vindictive. Two years ago anonymous letters were written to the pension department stating that Mrs. Sperry's husband was living and that under such circumstances she was not entitled to the money. The department started an investigation which revealed the whereabouts of Sperry. The deserted woman's pension of $10 per month was cut off. It was her only support.

When the daughter learned this she immediately set out on the trail of her father. She hated him, she hates him now, though she says her mother through all these years has loved the wandering husband and is reluctant to see the aged man sent to the penitentiary, which the daughter insists that she will do it is within her power.

Sperry was working here as a carpenter under the name of Pound, and did not know his daughter, Nemesis, was on his trail until she met him face to face when taken into custody. He staggered back as though struck a blow.

"Well, what have you got to say for yourself after all these years?" demanded the daughter.

"What—you—and you are the cause of this," stammered the old man. Sperry was taken to Tulsa tonight will be given a preliminary there tomorrow. His daughter, in another section, went to Tulsa on the same train with him.

She has asked the authorities to postpone the trial until she can appear as a full-fledged lawyer to prosecute her father.

MORE ABOUT THE COMMISSION FORM

Dallas Chamber of Commerce, Dallas, Tex. Gentlemen:—I have before me your request for my opinion on the commission form of municipal government, as illustrated by the working of our commission.

The Dallas Commission is an evolution from a more complex municipal administration.

The city government formerly consisted of a mayor with the executive power, except where this was lodged with officers chosen by popular ballot, by whom, in the aggregate, the mayor's power was greatly limited, and a city council, elected by wards, with the customary legislative jurisdiction of such bodies. Afterwards commissioners appointed by the governor were provided, who had direct charge of police and fire protection, and divided with the mayor a veto power over such action of the council as affected franchises.

Such machinery was found cumbersome, inefficient (because one part often interfered with another) and unduly expensive in view of the results obtained from it. The waste of money, without adequate benefit to the public, bred a spirit of distrust, which I think, had little or no foundation, in fact, but it rendered difficult the voting of bonds for necessary improvements, and generally discouraged the progressive spirit.

All this governmental machinery was swept away three years ago, and the commission was substituted. This commission is clothed with the whole executive, legislative and judicial power of the city which it administers, acting either as a body or through its individual members, or by officers and agents chosen by the commission.

The governing body consists of the mayor and four commissioners, one of whom is in immediate charge of each chief department of municipal affairs. This direct responsibility rests on one commissioner as to finance; on another as to police and fire protection; on another as to water supply; and on the other as to streets and bridges. It is true the mayor, and the whole board, share in a measure the burden of each commissioner, but not to the extent that accountability for the result accomplished in the several departments is shifted from the commissioner in immediate control.

Our experience of three years has proven that the system in force is greatly superior to those which had preceded it. The ideal, no doubt, has not been reached, perhaps never will be. The city's business is not capable of being systematized and transacted exactly along the line used by the best managed private corporations. The same freedom of action on the part of its officers cannot be exercised, because their tenure depends upon the approbation of a wider constituency whose conflicting interests must be, in a measure, compromised, in formulating plans for public business, and then a public corporation is not primarily for money making, but is instituted essentially for spending money to the best of advantage.

The personnel of our commission was carefully selected by an organization elected by the best citizenship for that purpose, and this body exerted its influence to secure their election. Partisan politics had no place in the movement, and so far has been kept away from the commission, and to this fact, I think, much of the success of the commission is due.

The feature distinguishing the commission form of government is the concentration of power. This concentration, in the hands of the right men, has resulted in great good. Intrusted to unworthy or incapable men the power of our commission might, I think, be abused more greatly than if more distributed. To successfully administer this system men experienced in affairs and of unquestioned integrity are the prime factors.

Our commission has fully met the expectation of those who formed it. Without increase in the tax rate, a sound financial status has been reached, where a deficit and confusion heretofore prevailed. Public order in its different phases has been improved. Pavements and sewers have been laid much more extensively; parks purchased and improved; the water system extended and confidence in the prudent and honest expenditure of the revenue revived.

The scheme of government by a mayor and commissioners, without a city council as we have it, needs and has certain safeguards, which are the recall, the initiative and the referendum, and an independently selected auditor, on whom is imposed the duty of keeping, and, at stated and frequent intervals, publishing the public account. We have not had occasion to use the initiative nor the recall. The referendum has only been used in relation to the grant of franchises, and the issue of bonds where it is imperative. Each of these safeguards, in my opinion, strengthens the scheme, and I think this is the general estimate of them.

In conclusion, would say that in my opinion, the commission is the most enlightened form of municipal government in use in America, and that its excellence depends on the existence of a broad and quickened civic spirit, which is able to assure the election of tried and capable men.

Respectfully,
J. C. DUKE,
Manager John Deere Plow Co.

NIGHT RIDERS IN OKLAHOMA

Woodward, Okla., Oct. 26.—Reports from several rural districts in Ellis county say that "night riders" have collected and threatened to burn all broom corn that was attempted to be sold, while 100 "night riders" gathered at Shattuck last night and made threats to do violence to farmers that attempted to sell their broom corn and destroyed several bales of corn there. It is reported they are collecting and will again visit Shattuck and other towns tonight, but no one seems to be uneasy and no damage or violence is expected. Several broom corn buyers traveling through the country report some of the farmers unfriendly with them and a few buyers have been ordered out of different neighborhoods. Lots of farmers are bringing their broom corn to town and selling it despite the rumors of night riders. Some buyers here think that the night rider sentiment will probably spread to this territory, as this is the center of the broom corn district for northwest Oklahoma.

COAL LAND BILL IS

BEING FRAMED
McAlester, Okla., Oct. 26.—Representatives of the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes are in conference here trying to frame a bill which may be agreed upon and put through the next session of congress without opposition looking to the sale of the Indian land and the early settlement of tribal affairs. The following are participants:

Hampton Tucker, coal trustee; McCurtain and Hill, attorneys for the nation, representing the Choctaws, while Governor Douglas H. Johnston, Hamp Willis, coal trustee, and Geo. D. Rogers of the firm of Clapp and Rogers, attorneys for the nation, represent the Chickasaws.

Salt as a Medicine.

I have in the past seven or eight years found the advantage of putting a little salt in all the water I drink. I also put a little salt, with sugar and milk, in every cup of tea, coffee or cocoa I use.

I have been a resident in the tropics for over 40 years, and except for a sprained ankle have not had occasion to call in a doctor or to take any medicine in the last 30 years. I believe every one's health in the tropics would be very much better if he used more salt. I find the benefit of drinking a tumbler of cold water with a little salt in every morning on rising at about 5 o'clock, before my bath or cup of cocoa, which I usually take between 5:30 and 6.

If people could be induced to try the easy and cheap method of taking a little common salt with the water they drink they would in the general-ity of cases find that they would seldom require other medicine.—F. N. Burn in Chamber's Journal.

The Beginning of a Past.
"The beauty about our candidate is that he has no doubtful past?"
"Then why," said Senator Sorghum feelingly, "should he insist on entering New York politics and starting one?"—Washington Star.

Once in a while there's a man who says: "That's se" to everything you say.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time. It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide. Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.
